

Dr. George Daly Jr.

1958

Dr. Daly was the Dean and Professor of the McDonough School of Business at Georgetown University in Washington D.C. George was responsible for research reports and monographs for numerous government agencies. He was published nationally and internationally in books and periodicals on business related topics. George won numerous academic honors and awards and served and presided over a variety of business and government boards. His expertise in business and economics was nationally and internationally acclaimed. George donated the computer room at Harding High and the children's reading room at the Fairport Library. He never forgot his hometown.

